Professional Summary

Full Stack Developer, graduated in Physiotherapy and a transition into technology area. During my career change, I have developed proficiency in both front-end and back-end technologies, building projects that combine creativity and functionality, leveraging my strong affinity with Digital Design. My previous experience has provided me with skills in analysis, attention to detail, and collaborative teamwork, which I now apply in web application development and creating robust systems. Motivated by continuous learning and passionate about problem-solving, I am eager to apply my knowledge in technology and grow professionally.
